

SUPPER THE FIGHT.

POLICE INTERFERE WITH THE MAHER-SHARKEY CONTEST. ENDED IN THE SEVENTH ROUND.

SHARKEY DRAWS FIRST BLOOD, BUT HONORS ARE ABOUT EVEN.

The First Five Rounds Were Characterized by Tame Work by Both Men—When They Warmed Up the Officers Hopped Into the Ring.

New York, June 9.—Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey fought to-night at the Palace Athletic Club for a $15,000 purse. At the end of the seventh round the police intervened, and the contest resulted in a unanimous decision in favor of Maher. The history of the ring has been such an enormous attendance at a boxing bout in this vicinity. There were about 1,000 persons squeezed into the big building at One Hundred and Seventh street and Lexington avenue.

A more representative congregation of well known sporting men has never witnessed a boxing mill than that which assembled at the clubhouse to-night. The sum of money which would have changed hands had the bout resulted in favor of either man is well up in six figures.

There was no police interference if the men fought hard. It was feared by the majority of those who purchased tickets, but after the two boys who took part in the opening bout had been allowed to pump each other without being stopped by the police, those present had hopes that the big fellows would have a good chance to settle the question of superiority.

Maher was a big favorite, but there seemed to be plenty of money for Sharkey. When they began operations Maher's advantage in height and reach was very marked. Sharkey's style of leaving himself open when stepping away caused a good deal of comment, and it was easily seen that Maher was in no hurry to mix matters, as he evidently preferred to size his man up.

The Fight Opens Tame.

The boxing was very tame for five rounds, neither man showing a marked advantage. In the sixth round Sharkey was directed straight right on the mouth sent Peter sprawling half way through the ropes, where he struggled for five seconds before he regained his feet. As Maher was getting up Sharkey stepped toward him, he was called back by Chynsky, who was evidently afraid that the sailor might commit a foul. Ten seconds later the gong ended the sixth round and when Maher turned to his corner he spat out a lot of blood. Sharkey's friends, when they saw this, yelled "third blood for Sharkey," and there was a great deal of cheering.

The seventh round was nearly completed when Maher, after receiving a knock-out blow on Sharkey, went to the latter to the floor near the ropes with a left in the wind and a right in the face. Maher was up again inside of five seconds and rushed into a clinch. In this clinch Maher kept working his right on the body, and when the gong sounded neither heeded the warning of the timekeeper, but kept on hitting each other until the referee stepped in and separated them. Maher was then rushed over and grabbed Maher. While he was trying to pull the big fellow away Sharkey was on his right on the second's face, dazing him.

By this time the house was in an uproar, and there was a great deal of cheering. The partisan of both men. The din was terrific, but was increased tenfold when Inspector McLaughlin ordered the police to arrest all those concerned in the fight. Policemen in uniform swarmed into the ring and a number of men were taken through the ropes. The principals were the first to be placed under arrest, and then the seconds and referees were taken to accompany the officers.

While all this was going on, the thousands of spectators who were present, and the decision from the referee, who was busily engaged in settling the matter, were rounded him. Finally it was decided that the bout was a draw, and the prize was split. The decision was a very conservative one.

Merits of the Men Undecided.

The relative merits of the men are just as much of a puzzle as the decision. The fight was a very close one, and the decision was a very conservative one. The fight was a very close one, and the decision was a very conservative one.

When the doors of the Palace Athletic Club were opened, a large number of people, each one endeavoring to get to the box office first, were seen at the entrance was jammed.

Police Inspector McLaughlin and Captain O'Connell, with a large force of Central office detectives in civilian dress, soon made the people form in line and of the same order were kept busy attending to those who tried to get in without paying. By 8:30 o'clock there were over 1,000 people in the house, and the crowd outside did not seem to diminish. Half an hour later the big building was filled with a clamorous host of sports. The seating capacity of the house is estimated at 8,000, and the aisles and every inch of the house were soon crowded to suffocation.

Prominent Sporting Men Present.

Large delegations from the principal cities west of Chicago were on hand and it would be easier to name the prominent sporting men who were in the arena. Maher was a pronounced favorite. Odds of 10 to 9 and 10 to 6 were bet on his chances. A large number of those who were confident of Peter's ability to defeat the sailor laid odds of 10 to 6 on John J. Sullivan. James J. Corbett, John J. Corbett, and John J. Corbett were seen at the ringside and each of them got a rousing reception when he made his appearance.

At 9:30 o'clock Charley Roden, of Jersey City, and Bob Guido, of this city, entered the ring. At the end of the first round Referee Charles White stopped the bout and declared Guido the winner. The Jersey City boy is the weaker of the two, but he received a rousing reception.

The action of the referee in this bout was commensurate with the present approval of it. The fast boxing in the preliminary round was the way for the big fellows. The action of the referee in this bout was commensurate with the present approval of it.

Kid McCoy Picks Sharkey.

Setting on the result continued to be lively and several wagers were made at even money that Maher would win in ten rounds. Kid McCoy picked Sharkey for this fight. He also placed $1,000 on Sharkey to win at odds ranging from 10 to 6 to 10 to 1. Maher was placed at $1,000 on Maher and Pittsburgh Phil had commissioners placing his money on Maher at 10 to 1.

It is estimated that he had over $10,000 on the big fellow. "Spide" Sullivan was also a Maher man, and he put up $1,000 on his choice. "Spide" Sullivan was also a Maher man, and he put up $1,000 on his choice.

There were others running north, south and east, and west, and the crowd was everywhere. Offices 800 Main street and 102 Union avenue.

Evidence in the Great Clay County Murder Case Closed Yesterday Without a Line of Direct Testimony—Foley Was Very Cool.

The state finished its testimony yesterday afternoon in the case of William S. Foley, on trial at Liberty for the murder of Charles W. Morrow. The testimony of William S. Foley, on the night of November 17, 1896, despite the fact that there was no evidence directly implicating the prisoner in the crime, the state made strong evidence to a jury.
